House Votes To Retain Embargo On Sale Of Arms, Ammunition

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, June 30—Stunned by a revolt during an uproarious night session in which the house voted to retain the embargo on sale of arms and ammunition to warring nations, administration leaders today rallied forces in an effort to reverse the action and pass the Bloom bill.

The drive for passage of the Bloom bill, which proposed repeal of the mandatory arms embargo provisions of the neutrality act, was temporarily abandoned at midnight after a 13-hour session of the house.

Foes of the measure, weary after day and night fighting, unsuccessfully opposed adjournment. They feared White House pressure would be redoubled to force recalcitrant Democrats in line for the bill.

The plan of administration leaders was upset when the house, by a vote of 159 to 157, adopted an amendment of Rep. John Vorys (R) Ohio, to retain an absolute embargo on shipment of arms and ammunitions to belligerent nations. The amendment retained the embargo of the present law, dropping only the indefinite term of "implements of war."

Lord Halifax, British Foreign Secretary, Makes Defiant Speech

APPEASEMENT IS NOW ABANDONED

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, June 30.—Press reports that Nazis are fortifying Danzig with the aid of an imported free corps army electrified London today as the last spark of Britain's "appeasement policy" was crushed out by Viscount Halifax, foreign secretary.

Developments within the last 24 hours, it was understood, led Lord Halifax to alter the originally planned mildness of a speech delivered before the Royal Institute of International Affairs, and substitute for it a straightforward warning that Britain was ready for war, and under the present menacing circumstances could not even discuss German claims for "living space."

"In the event of further aggression," said Lord Halifax, "we are resolved to use at once the whole of our strength in fulfillment of our pledges to resist it."

Britain Ready

Until yesterday, Lord Halifax had planned to hold open the door to early talks with the Reich regarding economic expansion. But the "threat of military force," he said in the speech which later was sent direct to those German and Italian people who might listen, had removed all prospect of such negotiations for the time being.

Once accused of pro-German leanings, Lord Halifax used the harshest words yet directed towards the Reich from a Briton in his high official standing. Moreover, in telling of Britain's readiness to fight

Brief Ceremony Marks Power Plant Opening

Bombs and aerial fireworks roared out a noisy staccato, the American Legion Band added martial airs, the American flag was hauled to the top of a mast, Louis B. Round opened the door and the new power plant of the Pennsylvania Power Company at West Pittsburg was formally put into operation Thursday afternoon.

It was a ceremony of little pomp but of vast implications. A few minutes for some preliminary details and a crowd of citizens entered the plant and saw for themselves just what a modern power plant means, what a wealth of equipment and men are necessary and after viewing it the concensus of opinion seemed to be that Lawrence County had a plant it could be justly proud of.

Motorcade Of Cars

Prior to the opening, a luncheon was held in the New Castle Field Club dining room attended by about 75 industrial and civic leaders. At two o'clock the motorcade moved out, headed by squad cars of the State Police and the city police. In the first car were Fred L. Rentz,

Hold Son For Mother's Death

Campbell McDonald Arrested At Santa Monica, California Last Night

BEING GRILLED ON OTHER CRIMES

(International News Service)

LOS ANGELES, June 30.—Captured while attempting to hitch a ride in Santa Monica, Campbell McDonald, 26, today told police he killed his mother, Margaret Campbell, 56, former film actress, "in a dream".

He admitted quarreling with her, police said, but insisted that he knew nothing of the actual killing.

At the same time he stoutly denied any connection in the killing of Anya Sosoyeva, pretty Russian dancer, who was bludgeoned by a marauder on the campus of the Los Angeles City college night school last February 24.

"Last Sunday night," police quoted him as saying, "I came home about 10 o'clock and began to read. I was still reading at 1 a. m., when my mother came in. She began to reprimand me for reading too much, saying that I was headed for a nervous breakdown if I kept it up. She threatened to send me to an asylum, too."

Young McDonald had been missing since the body of his mother was found Tuesday in her Hollywood rooming house. She had been beaten to death with a claw hammer, presumably 24 hours before the murder was discovered.

Fifteen Hundred At Testimonial Dinner On Thursday Night

Pennsylvania Power Company Officials And Employes Are Honored

WILLKIE MAKES NOTABLE ADDRESS

Tributes Accorded L. B. Round, Manager—Plaque Is Presented

New Castle citizens touched a new high in civic hospitality and neighborliness, Thursday night, when a testimonial dinner was tendered the officers and personnel of the Pennsylvania Power Company in the Cathedral. Nearly 1500 men and women turned out to show their appreciation of the new power plant the company opened at West Pittsburg earlier in the day.

Planned as a testimonial to the power company, the dinner went farther than that. Somehow there crept into the audience an enthusiasm that seemed to mark the end of pessimism here, the crowd seemed imbued with a new optimism that was marked, a determination that from here on there is going to be a different attitude, a feeling that the new power plant was the spark needed to fan optimism into a flame.

Remarkable Address

Perhaps the address of Wendell L. Willkie, president of the Commonwealth and Southern Corporation had something to do with it for not in a long time has a New Castle audience heard such an address. It was more than inspirational, it seemed to pick the audience up out of the chairs with its lift and enthusiasm.

His theme was "Free Enterprise" and the address he built around it is something that should be printed and given to every American citizen who has any doubt about his country. "This country has been made great" said he, "not because of its natural resources, not because of its population but because free enterprise has been encouraged.

"America is practically the only country in the world where 1500 people can meet such as we are tonight and where people can speak their minds. One by one the lights of freedom are going out in Europe, and the reason is that free enterprise is being restricted more and more.

"Not a bath tub was put into a home here, nor a telephone nor an electric light, but somebody expected to better himself by doing it. Under our system we have encouraged men who have an urge to do things to get them done. It isn't a perfect system, not a system that is not subject to social control, but I do not want to be one to disturb the basic principles of it."

"Banishment of free enterprise means that most of all our liberties go with it. We only have to witness the conditions in many other countries of the world to find convincing evidence of this fact."

Commenting upon the new power plant, Mr. Willkie said, "we first had intended building the plant somewhere on the Ohio river. It was the persuasiveness of Louis B. Round that determined our decision, for he was able to persuade us that here in this district laid the largest potentialities for expansion."

Good Dinner

The dinner was a triumph for the women of the Cathedral Chapter 440, Order of Eastern Star. Serving 1,500 people with half a fried chicken each is a job that might tax professional restaureators, but the women went ahead with the job efficiently.

At the conclusion of the dinner, Fred L. Rentz, president of The News, opened the speaking program as chairman of the evening. "This is a remarkable gathering," said he. "It is the first such function of the Greater New Castle Association and you will agree it's a magnificent start. We are honored tonight in having with us such a group of distinguished guests.

Hitler Launches Greatest Gamble

Knickerbocker Says Hitler Plans Early Seizure Of Danzig

By H. R. KNICKERBOCKER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS, June 30 — Adolf Hitler has launched his greatest gamble. Europe's brief period of rest from terror has ended.

The Fuehrer has definitely determined not only to take Danzig but to settle the entire "Polish problem" in a totalitarian way and although he believes he can do it without war he has made up his mind if necessary to fight.

His plans are completed to stand fast on the Siegfried line and simply restrain the French in the west while his eastern army smashes Poland.

He is convined that he can accomplish this in three months and that the British and French would then gradly accept peace terms.

This melancholy summary faithfully reproduces information reaching the French and British intelligence services which estimate July 20 as the date whence the crisis will begin to climb to a peak expected around mid-August.

Compromise On New Relief Bill

Conferees Reach Agreement —Expect Passage In Congress By Midnight

By ROBERT A. McGILL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, June 30.—House leaders today made public details of a compromise with the senate on the relief bill, under the terms of which house provision for administration of WPA by a three-member board would be eliminated, and the senate total of the bill be reduced from $1,808,900,000 to $1,755,600,000.

The house also recede on its provision earmarking $125,000,000 of the relief funds for PWA, but won its fight to terminate the activities of the controversial federal theater project.

The agreement was signed by the seven Democrats and four Republican house members on the conference committee and acceptance of the compromise in both branches before the midnight deadline tonight was anticipated.

The compromise total of $1,755,600,000 was $20,000,000 above the total as the bill passed the house ten days ago. The increase was accounted for by house acceptance of a provision boosting the $123,000,000 farm security administration fund to $143,000,000, a sum $20,000,000 less, however, than provided in the senate version of the bill.

PA NEWC OBSERVES

There was certainly a fine new spirit in evidence at the testimonial to the Power Company last night. The atmosphere was charged with optimism that New Castle is on the forward march. Statements by the visitors as to the potentialities for development in this particular district, were probably partly responsible, but there was also much local evidence of a changed spirit, and a lot of optimism was reflected in the huge meeting.

Some idea of the speed of modern transportation is revealed by the fact that yesterday, shortly before 2 o'clock, Wendell L. President Signs Tax Bill Today

Undistributed Profits Tax Law Is Repealed By New Measure

OTHER CHANGES IN TAXES ARE MADE

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, June 30.—President Roosevelt last night signed the "business appeasement" tax bill abolishing the controversial undistributed profits tax, the White House announced today.

By the same stroke of his pen, the president also continued in effect many other taxes, yielding approximately $1,644,000,000 annually, which otherwise would have expired at midnight tonight—the end of the current fiscal year.

He affixed his signature to the big tax bill within 24 hours after he had returned to Washington to face a legislative tangle in congress which threatened major administration measures.

The tax bill—now law—not only wiped out the undistributed profits levy but also removed many other so-called business irritants. In place of the undistributed profits tax, the measure substitutes a flat 18 per cent corporation income tax on corporations earning more than $25,000 a year.

The bill also continued many taxes which would have expired tomorrow night. The latter included corporation taxes yielding $1,000,000,000 annual revenue, and excise and nuisance taxes which bring in approximately $544,000,000 a year. The three-cent postal rate, yielding about $100,000,000 annually, also was continued.

Future Of President's Monetary Powers Will Be Determined Today

By EDWARD B. LOCKETT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, June 30.—The future of President Roosevelt's sweeping powers over this government's monetary policies rested oddly enough today in the hands of a little group of senate Republicans scheduled to determine their course at a meeting during the day.

If this group says the word, sufficient conservative Democrats have pledged support to end at midnight Mr. Roosevelt's power to further devalue the dollar, close out the treasury's $2,000,000,000 currency stabilization fund and end the administration foreign silver purchase program.

House acceptance of the report was considered a mere formality.

Expire At Midnight

All these powers expire at midnight unless a report drafted by senate and house conference committees continuing them is adopted.

The conference report carried a government price of 70 cents an ounce for domestic silver as an inducement for silver state votes. It was drafted by five-member senate and house conference committees. Each voted three to two, to negative a senate-approved bill ending the president's devaluation powers and the foreign silver purchase program and fixing the government price for domestic silver at 77.57 cents an ounce. A coalition of silver state senators and bi-partisan forces opposing devaluation powers and foreign silver buying, drove the senate bill to passage, but was upset in the conference report.

Troop K Will Get Back Home Early Saturday

(Special to The News by Everett E. Grandey, Troop Clerk)

CAMP WOOD, ANNVILLE, Pa., June 30.—Troop K., 103rd Cavalry, will break camp today and will entrain at 6 o'clock this evening on the return journey to New Castle, after two pleasant weeks spent in camp here, which have proven enjoyable and successful. The troop is expected to arrive in New Castle at 7:30 a. m. Saturday.

This morning the horses were loaded in preparation for the return trip, and the afternoon was spent in packing baggage and equipment.

This year Troop K leaves behind a camp that knew the New Castle outfit was here. We will bring home several cups for our trophy case in our new armory and we are most proud of those collected by Corp. Walzer, Mac Pollock and Benny Nessle, and Joe Perrotta for their work on the boxing team. Troop K has long been known as a fighting outfit and we proved the point beyond a doubt this year and we think we have given the people of New Castle just as much to be proud of in backing Troop K as we troopers have to be proud of in being members of the best outfit in camp.

It has been a busy two weeks since we left New Castle, and we will be glad to get home and sleep in a bed and have a cup of coffee for breakfast for a change (Hi Sarg Foster) but we will look on the last day of this camp with a lot of regret that it has to end, and we will pull out of Lickdale siding tonight knowing that we gave our officers an outfit to be proud of and that we have just finished a job that was well done in every detail, and that is a feeling well worth working for.

Third Term Plan Suffers Set-Back

Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee Head Announces Opposition

AGAINST THIRD TERM FOR ANY PRESIDENT

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, June 30.—The third term drive suffered a check today when Chairman Pat Drewry (D), Virginia, of the Democratic congressional campaign committee, announced his opposition to a third term "for any president".

Drewry, who has guided the Democrats to smashing congressional election victories, based his opposition on principle.

"I think it is a matter of principle that there should not be a third term for a president," said Drewry. "I think this is true whether the president be a Democrat or a Republican.

"I am not opposed to Roosevelt the man—I am opposed to breaking the tradition of this country against a third term."

Wealth of Candidates

Drewry declared that the Democratic party has a wealth of candidates for the presidency in 1940. The party, he declared, can win with a new candidate for the presidency.

"I have no opinion as to whether Mr. Roosevelt seeks a third term," said Drewry. "I trust the president's statement that he has not made any decision on the matter."

Drewry, whose business it is to keep his finger on the political pulse of the nation, declined to name possible Democratic candidates in 1940. He is confident, however, that the party can unite on a candidate, heal its differences and elect its man.

Unlike some Virginia members of congress, who have anti-New Deal records, Drewry has been a close friend of Mr. Roosevelt. While he has opposed many of his measures, he has gone down the line on crucial issues and in campaigns.

Thursday's Issue Of News Makes Pile 213 Feet High

Thursday's issue of The News, which featured the opening of the three-million dollar power plant of the Pennsylvania Power Company, which is now open to public inspection, occasioned one of the largest papers issued by The News in a number of years.

A total of 18,300 papers, the regular daily circulation, each containing 36 pages of news and advertising matter was printed on the big Goss press, which hurtled this extra-size issue out in record time.

Each of these papers weighed more than a half a pound each, and news carriers who have big routes, fairly staggered under the burden, but they accepted the extra weight in a cheerful manner, and few were late with their deliveries because of the extra burden. All told, a total of 9,882 pounds of paper and 100 pounds of printer's ink went into the composition of the issue, practically five tons of news matter.

If placed one on top of the other, the papers would have made a pile 213½ feet in height.

Employes of The News co-operated cheerfully in making this big edition possible and seeing that it got started rolling off the press on scheduled time. It was another mark along the pathway of progress of this paper.

Report Cabinet Change Is Pending

Woodring To Be Replaced

Expect Louis Johnson To Become Secretary Of War In President's Cabinet

WOODRING MAY GO TO PHILIPPINES

By ROBERT G. NIXON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, June 30.—An impending cabinet shakeup involving the post of secretary of war was reported slated by President Roosevelt today on the eve of the launching of America's greatest peace-time army and air defense expansion program.

Secretary of War Harry H. Woodring will be replaced as war department chief by Assistant Secretary of War Louis Johnson, informed quarters declared.

Woodring is slated to step down from the cabinet to take over the job of high commissioner to the Philippines, succeeding Paul V. McNutt, Indiana's 1940 presidential aspirant.

McNutt, now back in the United States to lay the groundwork for his bid for the Democratic nomination next year, is expected to submit his resignation to the president at an early date.

Should Woodring decline the proffered Philippine post, the chief executive is expected to offer it to Assistant Secretary of State Francis Sayre.

Sayre, a son-in-law of the late Woodrow Wilson, has steered the course of the government's new proposal to keep economic strings tied to the strategic and rich Philippine Islands until 1960, even though independence is scheduled to be granted the commonwealth in 1945.

Regardless of whether Woodring takes the job of high commissioner, informed quarters said the president is determined to give the post of secretary of war to Johnson.

the Bloom bill fought for other amendments. With the house frequently in disorder and a dozen members clamoring for recognition at one time, Democratic leader Rayburn took the floor to halt a threatened revolt on other amendments. He served notice that he would seek to reverse the Vorys amendment vote on a roll-call vote today.

Acting Chairman Bloom of the Foreign Affairs committee, predicted passage of the measure in a form satisfactory to the administration.

Rep. Fish (R) New York, opposition leader, charged that the adjournment was forced because the administration feared defeat of the bill.

"They were afraid of a vote," he said. Round, Vice President and General Manager of the Pennsylvania Power Company, Mayor Charles E. McGrath and Norman E. Clark, president of the Greater New Castle Association. Back of the first car was a string of about fifty others.

Arriving at the entrance to the power company grounds the motorcade was met by the American Legion Band headed by Director Joseph F. Replogle and Post Commander R. Harold Blewitt, and a detail of Boy Scouts from the South Hills Troop 26. As the band moved out in military formation a bomb went up at the plant, and the motorcade wound around the driveway to the plant itself.

News cameramen and private photographers had their inning shooting pictures of the distinguished guests and then the flag went up, with Bugler Don Yoho blowing "To The Colors" followed by the Legion Band playing the Star Spangled Banner.

Short Speech

Louis B. Round made a short address of welcome, thanking the crowd for its interest and inviting them to come back at any time during the four day period of inspection. He then opened the door of the plant, Mr. Sammis entered and after him the crowd.

At the Field Club there was little speaking. Following the lunch Mr. Round introduced President Walter H. Sammis who spoke briefly.

"You have a right to know why Wendell L. Willkie has not yet arrived" said Mr. Sammis, "and the reason is this. The United States Congress has not yet ratified the contracts whereby the properties of the Tennessee Power and Light Company are to be turned over by the Commonwealth and Southern Corporation to the T. V. A. and Mr. Willkie has been concerned about this. However he is leaving Newark, N. J., on the two o'clock plane and will be in New Castle by six o'clock."

"We are proud of this new power plant. It is built along conservative lines but it ranks with the finest plants in the country. Originally it was intended to build it along the Ohio River but the insistence of Louis B. Round finally won out and the directors decided to place it on the Beaver River, a decision which we now know to be correct.

"We are appreciative of the unsparing efforts of our directors here, E. F. McGill of New Castle, Samuel Hadley of Sharon and Stanley Gillespie of Greenville to the end that the company might better serve our customers. Our prosperity depends upon the prosperity of the territory we serve and we are interested in the work of the Greater New Castle Association along the lines of industrial development here."

FUTURE OF POWERS OF PRESIDENT OVER MONEY AT STAKE

Democratic forces opposing the devaluation bloc to filibuster the conference report past the midnight deadline, when the monetary powers expire, was unquestioned, but decision of the Republicans to do so was in doubt.

Democrats who voted with the silver senators and the Republicans to end the president's powers said they were ready to join Republicans to delay tactics that would kill the monetary bill, but refused to take the lead.

Senators Taft (R) of Ohio, Townsend (R) of Delaware, Vandenberg (R) of Michigan were the key figures in the Republican nucleus bent on ending the fiscal powers of the president. All three were bitterly opposed to extension of the devaluation powers, but were doubtful whether they should filibuster the conference report to death and thus end also the treasury stabilization fund's life.

Taft appeared ready to go ahead with the program of defeat for the report; Vandenberg avoided a direct announcement of his sentiments. Both have been boomed for the Republican presidential nomination.

HITLER WARNED BRITAIN READY

for the independence of Poland, Rumania, and other nations guaranteed by the Anglo-French front, he emphasized the power of all branches of the British fighting services.

"We have an unchallangeable navy," he said.

"Our air force, still undergoing expansion which has outstripped all the expectations of a few months ago, has now nothing to fear from any other. I have little doubt that its personnel, in spirit and skill, is superior to all others.

Widens Breach

"Our army, once derided, but which survived to prove its worth so that it made a boast of that derision, is undoubtedly small in comparison with that of some other countries. But, as happened once before, we are creating here also a powerful weapon for the defense of our own liberty and that of other peoples."

Diplomatic quarters felt that Lord Halifax undoubtedly helped to widen the breach between the western democracies and the Rome-Berlin axis, but the belief also was held that the resolute tone of the foreign secretary's message might well act as a deterrent if, as Paris and London dread, Germany is planning a stroke in Danzig.

In view of the peril at Danzig, today's reports said, Britain now has yielded almost entirely to Soviet demands for protection of the Baltic states. Hope therefore rose afresh that the Soviet Union, after disheartening negotiations in Moscow, might be brought into a triple entente to include France.

NEW AUTOMOBILE DEADLINE WELCOME

GOVERNOR JAMES' signature to a legislative act has changed the deadline for renewal of automobile owners' licenses from January 1 to April 1, something which had been repeatedly urged for sound reasons, and has advanced the date for renewing operators' permits from March 1 to February 1. Under the new law, present license plates will be good until April 1, 1940. Half rates will be charged on licenses obtained after October 1, and quarter rates after January 1.

The change was advocated partly because the closing weeks of December are crowded with Christmas activities, and find many motorists financially embarrassed. Also a rush was created in the Harrisburg offices at a time when state employees naturally wanted to relax. In addition, automobile dealers who bring out their new models in the fall favor the extension to give purchasers longer use of their first tags.

All in all, it is a sensible change, tending to spread the annual license dispensing over a longer period and minimizing difficulty to drivers. It can be hoped that this permanent extension will obviate the seeming necessity to a temporary grace granted every year, a practice which has caused unfairness and disrespect for regulations.

THE SLAUGHTER MONTH

A disaster that cost 8,720 lives, injured 800,000 and ran up property damage of $300,000,000 would shock the people of this nation and bring the improvements necessary to prevent a repetition.

Yet such a disaster occurred in July last year and may again this year when the United States goes through what the National Safety Council has found to be the most dangerous month of the year.

The 8,720 were killed in 1938 in accidents, the majority of which could have been prevented. This was at the rate of 12 every hour. And approximately one out of every 160 persons in the nation was injured.

Will July, 1939, leave an equally bloody trail behind? The answer depends on whether or not we, individually, are willing to take the simple precautions which will stop this annual national disaster.

ARTISTIC AS WELL AS USEFUL BRIDGES

Bridges can be artistic as well as useful. For some time this has been recognized by the American Institute of Steel Construction, which recently made its 11th annual awards for the most beautiful bridges built in 1938. Honors went to the Middletown-Portland monumental bridge in Connecticut, the Capital Bridge across the Kentucky River at Frankfort, the small bridge at Belton, Mont., over the Middle Fork of Flathead River and to several other bridges.

Bridges have been necessities since early man felled a tree across a stream. But it is only within comparatively recent years, when expanding civilization required long, immense bridges over wide rivers, capable of bearing great weight, that these structures have been recognized as capable of embodying beauty of design as well as engineering principles of safety.

Suspension and cantilever bridges, small, masonry arches or a combination of them molded into monumental bridges all have their phases of beauty. The little white bridge over a country stream has a style and loveliness all its own, comparable to the small, high-arched bridges of Venice or those spanning lotus pools in Japan.

Poets have sung of bridges in the moonlight and Emerson's hymn commemorates the "rude bridge arched the flood," where, back in 1776, was fired "the shot heard 'round the world."

MOTORLESS FLIGHT HAS ITS THRILLS

Every year blithe young men and women gather on a mountain top near Elmira, New York, and in motorless gliders start journeys over which they have little control to destinations they never know until they land. They have now finished another of these soaring contests, surely as near perfect unpredictable adventure as could be imagined.

Chester Decker of New Jersey, 1936 soaring champion, kept his frail glider on the crest of uprising air currents over a long mountain range and, by knowing just where these updrifts most likely would be, managed to reach Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, 130 miles from Elmira. He got $1000 as a prize, but had fun which was certainly worth more than that. He returned to Elmira and won further acclaim by flying against the wind for time honors.

A few weeks ago Peter Gloeckner of Germany was up 30,600 feet, he reported, in a 2½ hour soar. Richard C. du Pont and others in this country have risen on air currents alone 6000 to 9000 feet, and just the other day G. H. Stevenson, a young Britisher, soared over the English Channel. There is talk now of a glider flight around the world, towed by a plane, and the organized gliders contend for Federal recognition on the ground that gliding is an important military adjunct.

However, these youngsters are more concerned with aerial wrestling and guessing matches with the winds than with fighting anybody. There must be thousands of power fliers all over the world now learning the grim tricks of deadly air combat who envy these gliders their insouciant if innocuous challenging of the elements.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

BUILDING GOOD POSTURE

I wish every parent of a little child who reads this would sit down right away and send five cents to the Children's Bureau, Department of Labor, Washington, D. C. and ask for the pamphlet on "Good Posture in the Little Child."

Here is how the pamphlet summarizes the question of what brings about good posture:

"Good general health; good nutrition; freedom from fatigue; freedom from repeated or long continued infections and from diseases that bring about deformities; good sight and hearing.

"A well balanced diet, including the foods that help to build bone and muscle—milk, fruits, green vegetable, eggs, meat (and cod liver oil for the child under two.)

"Plenty of sleep and rest.

Outdoor Exercises

"Varied exercises outdoors—running, jumping, skipping, climbing. Encouragement by parents to take part in games and play that lead to symmetrical development of the body.

"Wearing well-planned, well-fitting clothes and shoes, which put no strain on the bones or muscles or soft tissues of the child but let them develop naturally.

"Sitting in a chair that supports the lower part of the child's back and is low enough to let him keep his feet flat on the floor. (I should add, or with a comfortable foot rest.)

"Sleeping in a bed that does not sag, with a firm, comfortable mattress and a flat spring, using no pillow or a very small one, so that the child's neck is straight."

To quote from a paragraph on clothes:

The little child's shoulders are easily pulled forward into bad position by hose suporters that put weight upon the outer parts of them. For this reason the underwaist or whatever garment the hose supporters are fastened to should place the pull near the child's neck

TODAY'S STORYETTE

A farmer received a large ostrich egg from his son, who was a sailor. After weighing it carefully in his hand, he went out to the chicken coop and placed it among the hens. Then he addressed them like this:

"Dear hens, I do not wish to cast any aspersions upon your industry. I fully appreciate the fact that you do your best. At the same time I should like you to observe what is being done by the hens in foreign countries."

"I have a confession to make, Joe. I robbed the firm of $50,000, and sold the blue prints of our secret formula for $200,000. I was the guy who was going out with your wife when you were working, and I . . ."

Good Taste

Reg. U. S. Patent Office

By Francine Markel

"The more appeal the modern glamour girl has, the more she resents risque stories," a gay Nan of the world said last evening. "I wonder why?"

"The reason is obvious," a professor of psychology replied. "To become adept in both charm and glamour such a girl must have developed enough perspicuity and perspicacity to know that the more truly masculine a man is in type the more he resents pornographic humor in his women. As a result of this law adepts in risque conversation become either disappointing wives or husbands or develop into disappointed spinsters or bachelors."

If you are a keen observer, you will note the truth of this. A man may accept a girl's off-color jokes with a silence that suggests approval but if he is a real man he will mark them down as a point against her who utters them.

Dear Miss Markel—I have been invited to a house party. Please give me some advice such as how long I should stay and any other information that you think may be of help to me. MARIE.

Answer—You may stay for precisely the length of time mentioned in the invitation. If it states that you come from Saturday until Monday, you should leave on the latter day, unless really urged to extend your visit. Here are a few of the fundamental points to bear in mind: Be agreeable at all times; appear to be interested in all programs arranged for you, even though you are bored by them; be on time for meals, no matter how inconvenient to you the hour may be; eat whatever is put before you, regardless of your likes and dislikes; do not impose on busy servants, and give the servant or servants a gratuity as a recompense for the overwork your visit may have caused them.

Tomorrow—Position of Feet When Walking

A convicted Pennsylvania politician claims he relied on the advice of his subordinates—men of long service. The best thing a boss can do is to keep an eye on the subordinates no difference how long they have been in the service, especially if it has been political service.

The government is going to ask 112,500 young men to enlist in the army service at once. In foreign countries the young men are told to get out into the field and start drilling. Some difference!

TRICK QUESTIONS

Now for a couple of more trick questions that were submitted to high school students and some of the answers given:

How many feet in a Scotland yard?

"One-twelfth of the total number of inches." "Three feet." "It depends on the number of people in the yard." "Twice the number of people standing there." Two feet to every member on the squad." "It all depends on how generous the Scotchman is."

What is a bassoon?

"An ape." "A musical instrument which is played by blowing into the mouthpiece." "A bassoon is a musical instrument which is used in an orchestra something like a jester is used in a court."

Answers: Scotland Yard is headquarters for London police. Bassoon is a double reed wind instrument.

For twenty-five years we have been trying to get a haircut that will please the folks at home.

You may have noticed that some candidates for office seem so much more friendly and sociable. They evidently think they had better try to be nice for once.

According to the magazine Nation's Business, the average American must work two hours and 12 minutes of every eight-hour day to produce what the government is spending.

The magazine also adds that not more than $1 out of $6 spent by the government goes to relieve those in need. The rest of it goes for new kinds of spending, such as new bureaus, new commissions, new buildings.

They want to take politics out of relief, but it seems it's up to politics to do it and there's the rub.

Half the prophets predict the bottom of a depression six months too soon, and the other half six months too late, which seems to prove nobody knows much about it.

Courtesy gives the high-pressure salesman some splendid breaks.

A good driver is one who assumes that every blind crossing, curve or hill conceals a fool.

Heard in passing:

"Today I met a girl who had never been kissed."

"I wish you'd introduce me."

"You're too late now."

In Japan they are taking the clothes off some people to search them and rob them. This makes it doubly embarrassing for the victims. Of course, in this country some bandits think taking the pants of a victim with them is a safety move. And it is!

Heard where lawyers were telling stories on themselves:

Two men were up before the judge in a Los Angeles police court for speeding.

"Have you a lawyer?" asked the judge.

"No sir," replied the men, "we have decided to tell the truth."

Some people miss a lot because they aim too high.

Hull Policy Unlike Germany's
Free Trade Agreements Differ
Hull Wants Worldwide Policy

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

The state department draws a distinction between Germany's international "barter system" and Uncle Sam's trading of American cotton with John Bull for England's tin, and rubber from British colonial territory. In fact, "bartering" and "swapping" are two altogether different kinds of transactions, according to Secretary Hull's lexicography.

The dictionary, I note, treats the alternate terms pretty much alike.

Nevertheless, there Is a difference between what Germany's doing (Italy also, but not as extensively as Germany is) and what we're doing.

Secretary Hull is in favor of the freest possible trade, on a world-wide basis. He doesn't want to limit it to the United States and any other single country. It's true that he makes reciprocal agreements with individual countries, but that's the only way he can make a start in his objective's all-around destination. He makes agreement after agreement as fast as he can. He's made about 20 already—a pretty good beginning, considering the long standing of tariff restrictions our whole globe over. His ultimate aim is to make free trade universal so far as this sphere is concerned. It's an ambitious program for just one country to initiate, but Secretary Hull keeps plugging away at it. Not only, he says, will it be economically vastly beneficial, but he's sure it will be an enormously pacifying influence; for practically all wars, he argues, originate from internationally economic causes. He makes a cracking good case of it.

Hull's scheme is what diplomats call "multi-lateral." And all countries can get in on it; they're urged to.

Germany's dickerings are "bi-latereral." They're intended to benefit Germany and some other particular country, but to the disadvantage of other countries. They're protective partnerships; not a universal partnership.

International Exchange

Germany practically Had to go in for bartering.

In pre-war days goods weren't swapped directly for goods between nations. The deals were pulled off in terms of money. Today Germany's money, outside Germany, isn't good for much.

Let me illustrate how this works. Some years ago I landed in Boston with a small wad of South American currency and called at a money changer's to get it transformed into U. S. dough. I made a middling good bargain.

Said the money changer, "I wouldn't have cared for this stuff until just now. But today a ship arrived with a cargo of South American products, and this South American paper is required to pay for it." Well, I'd come in on that ship. Otherwise my South American bankroll would have been a drug on the market.

Germany's in that fix today. It has to barter goods for goods; not money for money.

Swapping goods for goods, direct, is unhandy, but Germany has had to resort to it. For instance, it arranges a trade with Brazil, say. There's a swap, but it's a narrow transaction; there's nothing multi-lateral about it.

It's Different

Well, why isn't this on a par with our trade with Britain?

Here's why:

The commodities that Brazil trades to Germany and the goods that Germany trades to Brazil get into International trade immediately and gum international commercial relationships—a disorganizing influence.

The cotton we send to Britain and the tin and rubber that Britain sends to us are "stashed" away for at least seven years. Unless there's a war (and we need our tin and rubber and John Bull needs his cotton on short notice) the stuff simply is warehoused. It isn't as if I buy a 10-cent cigar and Bill Jones buys a 10-cent pack of cigarets. It's as if I traded my cigar for Bill's cigarets, thus stinging two tobacconists out of their respective profits. And then it's as if I neither smoke my cigarets for seven years, nor does Bill smoke his cigar. Naturally that has no effect upon the tobacco business. It merely means that, for seven years, Bill and I have, respectively, those smokes in reserve. At the end of the seven years neither Bill's cigar nor my cigarets will be good for anything.

So both will be innocuous. If we smoked 'em at once, the nicotine would be bad for us.

LOST FRIEND

I was his friend a year ago
Gut now his smile no more I know.

I waved at him just yesterday.
He turned and went the other way.

I've watched him flee at rapid pace.
Rather than meet me face to face.

I was his friend and still would be.
Yet every day he dodges me.

And every day he wakes in fear
That I may suddenly appear.

I am a creature he must shun.
And not for any evil done,

And not for any word I've said,
Or any scandal I have spread,

But in his hour of darkest doubt
I was the friend who helped him out.

I lent what banks would not allow.
I wish I hadn't done it now.

The Great Game Of Politics

By FRANK R. KENT

Where Are The Six?

WASHINGTON, June 30.

WHEN it is considered that the provision for the six additional White House secretaries was left in the Department Reorganization bill because the President insisted upon having tnem, the delay in their selection is curious. It has now been four months since the six were authorized. Not one has been named.

THIS is the more strange because while the bill was pending, the argument was made by Mr. Roosevelt's friends that these six secretaries were badly needed and the President could not get along without them. Anti-Administration Senators, not wanting to be put in position of refusing a request from an overburdened President for aid in doing his job, made no point against this extraordinary addition to the Executive staff, though disbelief in the necessity was privately voiced and no one offered a real explanation of what the secretaries were to do. Even the Senatorial sponsors of the bill had no clear idea.

HOWEVER, it was supposed Mr. Roosevelt knew and that as soon as he got authorization he would lose no time in getting the secretaries. Early speculation was to the effect that the little Corcoran-Cohen group of advisers, who hold various scattered jobs to which they do not attend, would officially become part of the White House family, or that their recommendations for these posts would prevail. From the start one of the specialties of the Corcoran-Cohen group has been to supply young men for Key Administration positions where they exemplify the extreme brand of New Dealism and give their first loyalty to their sponsor.

NEITHER of these things happened. Four months have passed and the President not only has given no indication of his choice but no sign of being overworked. On the contrary, he appears in the best of health, is able to go to Hyde Park for his customary rests and plans to leave shortly for his trip to the coast. In the last few weeks he has had time to play a considerable, though concealed, part in the phony third-term "draft" movement. In fact, he bears no resemblance to an overworked Executive and has exhibited no haste to add to his secretarial staff, though one of his four secretaries has been ill for months.

TO members of his Cabinet and heads of governmental agencies, failure of the President to name the "six selfless secretaries" as they have been called, is not disappointing. On the contrary, there is among them genuine relief. It will seem swell to them if they are never named. For one thing, they cannot conceive of anything these secretaries can do to justify their existence, except to act as buffers between the President and themselves. Obviously, this would be distasteful to heads of the Cabinet, who feel they have a right to see the President personally and would resent being forced to communicate through a third person.

IT WOULD seem to some an affront to their dignity and an entirely futile humiliation—futile because it would not work out. Cabinet members and agency heads are bound to have problems which, in their judgment, necessitate personal contact with the President and could not be filtered through a secretary. The buffer setup, no matter how selfless and tactful the secretaries, certainly would create friction without really relieving the President of the personal contact. At least that is the way it is viewed by those who would be most affected. It has been no secre' that the idea was not popular in Cabinet circles.

WHETHER it originated with Mr. Roosevelt or with the members of the commission which prepared the first reorganization bill is not definitely known. But it is known that Mr. Roosevelt was highly enthusiastic about it a few months ago. Now his enthusiasm seems to have ebbed. It is probable that originally his idea was the old one of 'coordination." For more than six years the Administration scene has been one of almost indescribable confusion. No one today can enumerate all the agencies at work in Washington—many of them at cross purposes.

NO one, including Mr. Roosevelt, knows what is going on. At least four separate attempts to "coordinate" were initiated by the President through his friend, Mr. Frank Walker who became jocularly known as "The Great Coordinator." They failed completely, not because of any lack of capacity in Mr. Walker, but because the thing just could not be done. The six secretaries proposal seems to be Mr. Roosevelt's latest effort to "coordinate." It looks now as though it would go the way of the other "coordinating" efforts. If and when the new secretaries arrive they are much more apt to be gentlemen who will help out in the White House literary and political labors than act either as assistant presidents or coordinators.

Auto Convoy Is Big Attraction

Since the accident several days ago, the huge automobile truck that was wrecked at Parkstown Corners has proven to be a big attraction.

Although several days have passed since the wreck, the trailer-truck is still marooned in the yard of the Byler home at Parkstown. All day long automobiles stop on both sides of the road while their owners inspect the damage. It was estimated by residents of the district that several thousand people have viewed the remains.

where it can be borne satisfactorily An underwaist with a "builtup neck" does this and is much more desirable than one with ordinary shoulder straps. A supporter with wide shoulder straps crossed high in the back also puts the weight near the neck and permits the child's shoulders to hold their natural position. Hose supporters should be fastened at the sides, not in front or toward the front as the latter positions pull the shoulders forward and down. They should not be fastened so tightly as to cause strain at waistline or shoulders."

Adjutant General Martin Is Now In Command Of Guard

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, June 30.—A veteran of 41 years' military service has assumed command of the Pennsylvania national guard.

Edward Martin, adjutant general of Pennsylvania, was promoted to the rank of major general and took over command of the 28th division and attached troops.

Gov. Arthur H. James, in making the promotion, revealed that Martin, succeeding Maj. Gen. Edward C. Shannon, retired, would continue as adjutant general. Martin will be the first officer in the commonwealth to serve both positions at the same time.

General Martin's dual capacity will bring Pennsylvania in line with the set-up in the remainder of the Third Corps Area, of which the 28th division is a part. In taking his new post, General Martin relinquished command of the 55th infantry brigade with which he was associated since 1898.

Drunken Driver Gets Pen Term

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, June 30.—Denounced by the sentencing judge who declared a drunken driver is more dangerous than a man with a gun—"because a gunman usually hits what he aims at while a drunken driver might hit anyone, and more than one"—Raymond Madaus, 23, began a 1 to 14 year jail term today.

Madaus was convicted of killing a man and injuring a woman during a wild ride in a borrowed car while he was intoxicated last May 6. The judge, Robert J. Dunne, declared leniency in Madaus' case was "out of the question."

J. J. Dean Family Picnic Outing Is Successful Event

Nearly 500 Employees, Customers And Families Of J. J. Dean Co. Join In Outing

Promoting the "Good Fellowship" spirit for which they are noted the J. J. Dean Grocery company, held one of the most successful outings ever undertaken on Thursday evening, when they entertained at Lakewood Beach, employees, their customers and families, totaling nearly 500.

George D. Moore was general chairman in charge, and he was assisted by a capable committee in carrying out an entertaining program for all ages, affording everyone an excellent time. Activities were launched at 8 o'clock.

Gene Flack, chief executive and vice-president of the Loose-Wiles Biscuit company of New York City, and the possessor of a dynamic personality, was guest speaker of the day. He delivered an inspiring talk, in a humorous manner, that kept the assemblage in an uproar a good share of the time.

Rounding out the day, a local orchestra was engaged, and provided a program of dance music at intervals. Dr Harry LaMaster featured vocalist of this city, scored with his popular song hits. He also led in group singing.

At the chosen hour, refreshments were served.

company we are honoring are men we seldom see. The man we associated with electricity in New Castle is Louis B. Round, the vice president and general manager of the Pennsylvania Power Company. He started with the company in a humble capacity, but through his own efforts rose to the place he occupies tonight." Mr. Rentz then introduced William A. Francis, toastmaster of the evening.

Handled Well

Mr. Francis seemed to catch the spark of good feeling from the audience and his handling of the toastmaster's job was excellent. A little humor, some facts and just enough seriousness to make the whole thing jell.

Mayor Charles E. McGrath welcomed the visitors and said that it was a night of which everyone could be proud. He thanked the power executives for their treatment in constructing the power plant here and prophesied that their action would result in mutual good.

Judge W. Walter Braham was the next speaker. Said he, "the Pennsylvania Power Company has built this power plant, not because we needed it to light our homes, but on the chance that they could supply power to those who have work to do and wish to hire electricity to do it."

Mrs. William J. Hinkson was presented and sang a group of songs in a charming fashion. Her artistry was the one thing needed to obviate what might have been monotony with an uninterrupted list of speeches. Mrs. Hinkson sang twice, accompanied by Mrs. Catherine Nessle Allen.

Mr. Willkie spoke next and was followed by brief remarks by Walter H. Sammis, president of the Pennsylvania Power Company. Mr. Sammis took little time and merely expressed his pleasure at the gathering and the spirit manifest.

Costliest Peace Time Year Closing For U. S. Treasury

By ERIC FRIEDHEIM
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, June 30.—With a red-ink toast, the federal treasury bids farewell to the 1939 fiscal year today and closes its books on the costliest 12 months period in the government's peacetime history.

By midnight, the treasury will have pumped out approximately $9,300,000,000 since last July, or $900,000,000 more than was spent in 1936, the previous high-water mark in New Deal expenditures.

Only the two World war years were more expensive and when the curtain falls on the fiscal period today, government outlays since July, 1933, will total nearly $50,000,000,000.

Since federal revenues tumbled materially below last year, the treasury's 1939 fiscal deficit will touch $3,500,000,000, or three times larger than in 1938.

Income Slumps

The business decline caused federal income to slump to $5,650,000,000. This represents a $600,000,000 decrease from 1938, the government's best earning year since the World war period.

Neither the expenditures nor the deficit was greater than President Roosevelt forecast last January in his budget estimates. At that time the president expected federal outlays to reach $9,492,000,000 and the deficit, $3,972,000,000.

The president also was conservative in his revenue estimates for the treasury took in about $100,000,000 more than was anticipated.

Recovery and relief continued as the major drain on treasury cash. Approximately $3,100,000,000 has been spent in the past 12 months to care for unemployed and to quicken the pace of the nation's business. This was an increase of $1,000,000,000 over last year.

PLAN NEW ROYAL YACHT
(International News Service)

LONDON — Plans were being drawn up today for a new yacht for Britain's king and queen to replace the 40-year-old wallowing tub "Victoria and Albert." The old coal-fired yacht rolls so heavy in bad weather that on their last journey from Dover to Calais, the king and queen had to leave the yacht at home and use the admiralty's "Enchantress" instead.

Halt W.P.A. Work For Four Days

Step Taken Pending Final Action Of Congress On Relief Bill Fund

Walter M. Todd, district manager of the Works Progress Administration in the four-county area which centers here, stated today that orders have been received from Works Progress Administrator F. C. Harrington at Washington, through the state administrator, to suspend all WPA work from July 1 to July 4, inclusive, pending final action of the $1,808,900,000 Federal relief bill, which Senate and House conferees at Washington are attempting to compromise before tonight.

The order affects 9,800 workers in the local district, but means that they will lose very little time as a result of this order, as a Saturday, Sunday and holiday, are included in the period.

The action was taken, it was stated, because of uncertainty as to some of the items which Congress will include in or delete from the relief measure and which might cause legal complications.

Safer Fourth On Highways Sought

Secretary Of Revenue Hamilton Urges Motorists To Use Precaution

CITES TOLL OF PREVIOUS YEARS

HARRISBURG, June 30.—A challenge to every Pennsylvania motorist to meet demands for highway safety by using caution and common sense over the July 4 holiday was issued today by Secretary of Revenue William J. Hamilton, Jr.

"There is no rhyme or reason why there should be a wholesale slaughter on the highway during this particular time of celebration," Hamilton said. "It can be stopped It must be stopped.

"Last year over the July 4 holiday from Friday, July 1, through Monday, July 4, there were 844 motor vehicle traffic accidents in Pennsylvania in which 43 persons lost their lives and 823 persons were injured.

"A recent survey from our division of safety informs me that these four days supplied 28.5 per cent of all traffic facilities during the month of July and accounted for 18.2 per cent of the month's total injuries.

"Although during the year, I am happy to say, there were 682 fewer deaths than in 1937, nevertheless during the particular July 4 holiday the daily average of deaths was twice as great as the daily average for the entire year."

"I cannot emphasize too strongly," the secretary said, "the intense responsibility that rests upon the shoulders of every motorist who uses the highway over this holiday period.

"I call upon every motorist to sign a new Declaration of Independence for this July 4 holiday—Independence from the annual tribute of thousands of lives needlessly sacrificed upon the altar of carelessness."

Believer Nurses Bite From Snake

Virginia Mountaineer Allows 26-Inch Diamond Backed Rattler To Bite Him

(International News Service)

BLUEFIELD, W Va., June 30.—In an isolated wooded clearing near Narrows, Giles county, Va., a mountain youth named Walter Mills, 24, nursed the effects of a rattler's bite today, confident that his "trust in God" will prevail over his disdain for medical aid.

"I did it as an example to nonbelievers," he said.

He was bitten June 21 in the Holiness church. He said he handled the 26-inch diamond-backed rattler five minutes before it sank its fangs between his thumb and forefinger. Mills stood before the congregation, demonstrating his faith as the climax of a sermon by Mrs. Effie Gilmer.

Today Mills' arm was still swollen three times its size, blisters had swollen and burst. He explained his arm was still swollen a bit from a copperhead's bite on June 1.

"I let one bite me twice last summer. Sure I'll do it again if God tells me to," Mills said.

Aviation Study For Vocational Schools Vetoed

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, June 30.—Aviation training in vocational schools in Pennsylvania was ruled out today as Gov. Arthur H. James vetoed a $100,000 subsidy for the training.

Approval of the appropriation, the governor said, would "establish a precedent that would be used as an entering wedge for appropriations for vocational training in other restricted occupations."

"This would be undesirable," the governor said, "and unduly restrictive upon the vocational education program of the commonwealth.

"Moreover, there is no provision in the budget for the appropriation made by this bill, and the condition of state revenues does not warrant its approval at this time."

RHEUMATIC FEVER CAN BE CURED WITHOUT DAMAGE TO HEART IF CAUGHT IN TIME

Perhaps one of the reasons I have so much to say about rheumatic fever is the fact that I had an attack of it myself when I was a boy. I was only ten at the time but I shall never forget the pain it caused me. I never had anything like it before or since. I remember I was afraid to have people come near me for fear they would touch the bed.

I was fortunate, though, for my father was a doctor of a good many years' experience. He wasn't worried about the pain I was suffering, but he was afraid that my heart might become involved. So he kept me in bed for six weeks. The first two weeks I was suffering I didn't care about getting up, but that last month was awful, for I was over my aches and pains and was feeling fine. I never know time to drag so. But my father brought me through the attack without any damage to my heart. I know now that only that long period of rest in bed kept me from having a bad heart, and I think of that every time I attend a case of rheumatic fever. If I have trouble keeping the boy or girl in bed, I tell them the story and I find that it helps keep them quiet.

Yes, it is the long stay in bed after this disease is apparently cured that is hard on patient, parents and physician. Sometimes the pressure at the home becomes so great that the doctor is almost forced to let the child get up. If the persuasion becomes too great, there are certain laboratory tests which can be brought into play to show whether or not the heart has been affected. Usually the pulse is much higher than it should be, the number of white corpuscles in a measured quantity of blood is above normal, and frequently the temperature will run a degree higher than it should.

The most important test is to draw a small quantity of blood into a narrow tube and set it aside to see how long it takes the cells in the blood to fall to the bottom of the tube, leaving clear liquid above. When the child is suffering from heart damage and the infection is still active, the drop will be much more rapid than in normal people.

In almost every case of acute rheumatic fever in a child between the ages of five years and fifteen, there is some damage done the heart. The only safe way to treat such a case is to see that the child remains quietly in bed for weeks, or even months, until the heart has returned to as close to the normal state as it will.

So again let me impress upon you parents the necessity of catching rheumatic fever in children before it has had a chance to progress too far. Just remember the main symptoms: vague pains in arms and legs, too many head colds, paleness, loss of appetite, listlessness. When you see these, take the child to the doctor for, caught in its early stages, the disease can usually be disposed of without much trouble. But if the case is not diagnosed until there is a full-grown case of rheumatic fever present, it is too late to prevent damage to the heart. The best we can do is keep this damage to a minimum.

More Than 700 Planes Bought By U. S. During Last Ninety Day Period

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, June 30. — America is energetically pushing its army air expansion program and making rapid headway, according to Colonel Louis Johnson, assistant secretary of war.

In an interview here today Colonel Johnson, whose job is that of "business manager of the war department" disclosed that in the last ninety days he has purchased "more than 700 of the best planes in the world."

"At the time of Munich (last September) we had between 1,700 and 1,800 military planes," he said. "We hope that within the two-year time set by congress to achieve our objective of an air force of between 5,500 and 6,000 planes."

Congress authorized the expenditure of about a billion dollars for national defense purposes.

Colonel Johnson pointed significantly to the action of the war department in contracting this week with three manufacturing concerns for aircraft engines costing $25,000,000. These contracts probably representing the largest order for engines placed at one time since the World War.

The Allison Engineering Company, of Speedway, Ind., received a $15,080,261 contract; an $8,975,317 went to the Wright Aeronautical Corporation of Paterson, N. J., and the Pratt and Whitney Aircraft Division of the United Aircraft Corporation, East Hartford, Conn., was awarded $953,810 contract.

Colonel Johnson, a World War veteral and past national commander of the American Legion, spent a few hours in New York on his roving job of "selling" America on national defense. In the past fifteen months he has made 160 speeches in virtually every state in the union. He says that "co-operation of industry has been 100 per cent."

Preparedness For Peace

He is a strapping, well-built man of middle-age, with a round high forehead and bright brown eyes which peer alertly from behind rimless glasses. Up to two years ago he was a lawyer in West Virginia. He tells you with pride in his voice that America's ability to produce industrially means that this country is potentially the strongest nation in the world from a military standpoint. "Preparedness for peace" seems to epitomize his viewpoint.

"Air power was responsible for Munich," Colonel Johnson told International News Service. "As long as some nations make threats of force and force is the controlling element at council boards then America must be strongly armed—not for offense but for defense; not to make war but to keep out of war.

"United States policy, and all our thinking and planning, is directed toward keeping us out of war.

"Recent history is replete with instances where the weak and their rights have not been respected. America must never find herself in that position of weakness."

New Method Of Launching New Romantic Film Team

By BURDETTE JAY
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, June 30.—Hollywood has hit upon a new and effective method of launching a screen romantic team. Warner Bros., tried it with John Garfield and Priscilla Lane. Judging by letters to the studio and the two stars it's a success.

Usually studios introduce romantic teams in a boy and girl love romance with a sweet, happy ending—boy gets girl, everybody's happy, etc. If the picture clicks, they're a team audience interest begins to wane.

The Garfield-Lane combination was different in that the studio deliberately whetted interest by withholding happiness from the stars. Garfield lost Miss Lane to Jeffrey Lynn in "Four Daughters," the first test of the theory. In "Daughters Courageous" Garfield again was the loser, leaving the pretty Priscilla to such consolation as Lynn could provide.

And then the public spoke. They were sorry for poor John. They liked the pictures, but they wanted to see him win Priscilla and keep her. And when the public speaks, studios take action. The brothers Warner waded through the mail and immediately cast John and Priscilla in "Dust Be My Destiny." And this time John and Miss Lane will have their poignant moments, of course, but all will end happily and he'll get the girl.

And over at 20th Century-Fox, big boss Darryl F. Zanuck had a new idea, too. His stroke of genius concerned building an actress into a star. Usually the flickers take the raw product and change her looks, name and personality until her own mother would hardly know her. But Mr. Zanuck said no we wouldn't do that with 18-year-old Brenda Joyce. He liked Miss Joyce just as is.

So Mr. Zanuck issued orders to all studio departments. Nothing, he ordered, should be done to change Miss Joyce's personality.

At that point Mr. Zanuck cast young Miss Joyce as Fern in "The Rains Came" after looking at tests of 58 girls collected in a nationwide search. Director Clarence Brown explained thus: "She looks, acts and talks like Fern. There's no reason why we should try to change her. If we did, she might become stilted. And we chose her for her naturalness before the camera."

American Mission Hit By Jap Bombs; Burns To Ground

No Casualties Reported As Mission Is Destroyed In Foochow Attack

(International News Service)

SHANGHAI, June 30.—Hit by three bombs in a Japanese air raid on Foochow, buildings of the American board of commissioners for foreign missions on the outskirts of the central China port burned to the ground today, according to Chinese reports.

There were no casualities.

The attack inaugurated Japan's direct assault on the city, three days after the United States, Britain, and France received and firmly rejected Nipponese demands that their ships and nationals be evacuated from Foochow and Wenchow.

Great Britain replied to Japan's demands with the most vigorous measures taken since, three weeks ago, Japanese troops established a blockade around the Anglo-French concession at Tientsin.

Thirty-six British marines were landed at Foochow in direct defiance of Japan's request, in order to protect lives and property at the British consulate.

News Briefs From City Hall

Mayor Charles E. McGrath in police court, Thursday afternoon, fined Quilla Johnson, colored, a roomer at 901 Moravia street, $25.00, on a charge of drunkenness, disorderly conduct and resisting an officer, Wednesday night. The mayor discharged Woodie Slajton, colored, same address, on a charge of disorderly conduct. It was reported to His Honor that some trouble developed at that address and when police were summoned by Slayton, Johnson fought the arresting officers enroute to the police station.

Pete Di Carlo, Patsy Dando, Guy Vavacho and Joe Marino, all said to be from R. D. 7, landed in the arms of the city police early this morning after they were reported to have damaged property in the American cafe. Mayor Charles E. McGrath today in police court fined each $10, with the alternative of spending 10 days in the city jail.

Four youths who were said to have stolen gasoline from a car in an alley bordering North Croton avenue, Wednesday night, were charged by Police Chief Ralph A. Criswell with petit larceny in an information sworn to before Alderman James C. Brice. The youths were committed to the county jail pending a hearing Saturday. The boys deny the charge.

MORE EARLY SETTLERS

The Methodist Episcopal Society known as "Kings Chapel," claims the honor of having been the first organization of that denomination in Lawrence county. In 1804 William Richards came with his family from Center county, Penna., accompanied by others and settled in the neighborhood of "Kings Chapel," The preachers were called exhorters, and Rev. Asa P. Shinn was a preacher on the Shenango circuit at that time.

James Morehead settled on a farm along the Shenango river just south of Mahoningtown in 1804. His son, H. H. Morehead, came to New Castle early and had a leather store on Washington street. The Morehead family has been a prominent one through the years. They lived on East street. Mr. Thomas F. Morehead, grandson of James, became early identified with Knox, Long & Morehead, real estate and insurance business in the Pearson Building. He was a large dealer in real estate and built many houses here. He was instrumental in bringing the B. R. & P. Railway and the Lehigh Portland Cement Co. to New Castle. He was a director in the First National Bank of Lawrence county, has done much for the advance and growth of New Castle, and his death last year removes another of our progressive citizens. Miss Elizabeth Morehead, a grand daughter lives on Moody avenue. Great grand children Mrs. Rufus C. McKinley and Mrs. Harold C. Heck.

Crawford White came from Cumberland county, Pa., and settled on Lot No. 1953 of the "donation lands," year 1804. In 1818, Mr. White erected a grist-mill and saw-mill, on or near the ground where Raney's grist and flour mill stood. John Tidball was the first miller, and operated it for White.

EARLY CHURCHES

The first church building in New Castle was erected by the Presbyterians in 1804. Previous the congregation had worshipped in a "tent," which consisted of a board shelter for the preacher, and logs in front for seats. The first church building was made of round logs, and stood near the residence of John T. Phillips, Rex. Alexander Cook was the first pastor.

The second church, belonging to the "Seceders," was built about 1814 and stood at the head of Beaver street.

The Methodists were the third congregation to erect a church building, which they did in 1815, on ground occupied by the First M. E. church on South Jefferson street.

WITH COMMODORE PERRY

Thomas Green, father of Capt. Oliver Hazard Perry Green Sr., was a soldier in the war of 1812. He was on the brig Niagara when Commodore Perry captured the British fleet in the naval battle on Lake Erie, September 10th, 1813, and was presented with a silver medal. He is survived by a grandson, O. H. P. Green of this city.

The North Hill Rangers defeated the North Hill Greyhounds at Wash High field Thursday morning 12 to 10. Treharne was the winning pitcher and fanned 17 batters. New Castle Field Club Star Woman Golfer Will Seek West Penn Women's Championship

STAGES COMEBACK TO ENTER FINAL

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, June 30.—Mrs. T. E. Nolan, of New Castle, and Mrs. J. H. Heim, of Kane, met today in the final round for the West Penn Women's Golf Association championship on the Allegheny Country club course.

Mrs. Nolan eliminated Mrs. C. E. Cox, of the Wanango Country club, Reno, one up, and Mrs. Heim topped Mrs. J. R. Murphy, of St. Clair, 4 and 3, to gain the title round.

Mrs. Heim had little trouble with her opponent, but both went way over par as they worked unsteadily around the course. Mrs. Murphy was able to win only one hole, the fourteenth, and that went to her favor when Mrs. Heim carded a seven—two over par—while the St. Clair golfer knocked of' a six.

Luck Changes

Mrs. Murphy's defeat was a bit of a surprise since it was she who eliminated Betty Abernethy, defending titilist, in the first round.

Mrs. Nolan trailed her opponent most of the way, but her luck turned late in the second round and she managed to eke out a close one-up win. Today's play for the title will be the first time that the silver trophy will be taken out of the immediate Pittsburgh area in the 18-year-old history of the association.

Mrs. Nolan began her golfing career at the Sylvan Heights course not so many years ago, but is quite

PLAN TWIN BILL

The Gus Big Ten softball team of the City Softball league will play the Comas of Glassport, Pa., a double bill here Sunday afternoon at Lehigh field. The first game will start at 1:30 o'clock. The Comas are one of the best teams in and around Pittsburgh, and are composed of former New Castle softball stars now residing in the Pittsburgh district.

Slovaks-Indies Washed Out, May Battle Tonight

Weather Permitting Fans Will See Crucial City League Game At Cedar Street

If Old Man Jupe Pluvius is willing, the baseball lovers of New Castle will jam Cedar Street field tonight to watch the Slovak Club and the Lawrence Indies in their crucial first-half title fight. The game last night was washed out by the late afternoon deluge that made playing out of the question. The game tonight will start at 5:45 o'clock.

Managers Steve "Fats" Gonda of the Slovaks, and George "Hoss" Zidow had a side bar conference last night and decided to play the game today after Danny DeGenova of the West Pittsburg team, agreed to cancel the West Pittsburg-Indies game scheduled for tonight.

Leroy Anderson will do the pitching for the Slovaks and will be opposed by either Savage, Russu or Joe Wilk. This will no doubt be a crackerjack of a ball game if they can play at all and if it doesn't rain anymore today they will be able to play at Cedar street, Zidow announced.

If the Slovaks win this game they take the first-half crown in the City Baseball League.

Yanks-Senators Split Twin Bill

Dutch Leonard Tames Yanks In First Game 2 To 1 In 12 Innings

PIRATES-REDS NOT SCHEDULED

By PAT ROBINSON
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, June 30.—Atley Donald, tall right hander of the Yanks, stands out today as the rookie pitcher of the year.

In less than half a semester, he not only has won his spurs as a major leaguer but is actually leading both leagues in effectiveness and is even heading toward a record streak.

He has won nine straight without a set-back and, as he is going now, he appears almost unbeatable. He is improving with every start. Of course, he is bound to run into an off-day sometime but even then it's no certainty that he will lose so long as he has a wrecking crew like the Yanks behind him.

Split Twin Bill

However, he has needed very little help in running up his victory string. He won his ninth yesterday when he blanked the Senators with three hits, 7 to 0, in a game halted by darkness at the end of the sixth.

Babe Dahlgren, who recently has become infected with the Yankee slugging virus, hit his fourth homer in two days in this game.

The Yanks dropped the opener, 2 to 1, in 12 heats as Dutch Leonard outlasted Red Ruffing in a brilliant exhibition of pitching.

Yanks Increase Lead

The Yanks picked up another half game because the Athletics pounded out 17 hits to trim the Red Sox, 8 to 6.

The Browns, who are getting a well pitched game now and then, split a pair with the White Sox. Young Bob Harris held the Sox to six hits as the Browns took the opener, 9 to 3, but then bowed in the nightcap, 7-5. The Tigers and Indians were rained out. Ditto the Phils and Dodgers in the National League. The Reds and Pirates were unscheduled.

The Bees put over six runs in one inning—which is about their usual run quota for a week—to trim the Giants, 8 to 2. However, the Giants remained in second place as the Cubs nosed out the Cardinals, 7-6, in a game in which Hartnett, Mize and Slaughter contributed home runs.

Louis-Pastor Bout Sought

Louis May Meet "Bicycle" Pastor In Detroit In September Is Report

By LAWTON CARVER
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, June 30—With some assurance, but not absolute certainty, it can be reported today that Joe Louis' next knockout victim will be Bob Pastor in a heavyweight championship fight at Detroit in September. This encounter is in the making now and will be consummated next week, barring unforeseen hitches. There won't be any logical reasons for further deferring a return match between the two because Louis has rankled under the stigma of letting Pastor stay the limit when they met before and the latter avowedly is eager to prove he can do it again—for the challenger's end of the purse.

Louis' four-round knockout over Galento inspired what might be termed a riotous scene late yesterday at the boxing headquarters conducted and maintained by Promoter Jacobs. There the managers gathered with the press and midst scenes of wildest disorder had at each other.

This will give you an idea

Joe Gould sought a fight for Tommy Farr and Louis in London.

Joe Jacobs wanted a return engagement for Galento.

Jimmy Johnston hollered in behalf of Pastor.

Bishara-Ivanich Leading Pitchers

Three of the leading softball pitchers in New Castle are on the Nobil team this year. Norman "Cannonball" Bishara has won six and lost none for the Nobils, Ivanich has won four and lost none, and "Gabby" Kendra has turned in five victories and two defeats.

Manager Italo Amodie has few worries regarding his pitching in the league, and why should he, with three star heavers on the roster. Kendra has the distinction of having defeated the strong Radiator team three times this year, 5-1, 2-1 and 3-0, and has only allowed two runs in 27 innings against the last year champs.

City Baseball Managers Meet This Evening

Will Meet At St. Josephs Parish Hall To Discuss Second Half And Contracts

All managers and officials of the City Baseball league have been called into session tonight at the St. Joseph parish hall at 8 o'clock for the purpose of discussing the coming second half of the league season and also to go over contracts.

Secretary Babovsky will have all of the teams at the meeting. The managers will be allowed to go over these contracts and release any player they see fit. Players for the second half must be signed up by July 10.

It is understood that a few of the managers have little grievances that need ironing out and these will be taken care of tonight. The league hopes to start the second half with harmony prevailing among the various teams and within the league circles.

Pat Comiskey Visitor Here

Upcoming Heavyweight From New Jersey Spends Brief Time Here Thursday

Patrick Comiskey, New Jersey's youthful contender for Joe Louis' heavyweight title, was a visitor in New Castle Thursday night.

The powerfully built lad with a wicked wallop, chatted with George Chip, Jr., son of the former middleweight titleholder, George Chip. Comiskey answered questions concerning him in a modest manner. He hopes to win the grandest prize in pugilism, the heavyweight title. The youth has a splendid chance of copping the laurels, within a few years. Still in his teens, Comiskey has startled the boxing world with a long string of knockouts. Few survive his hefty right.

Comiskey was enroute to his home when his automobile was involved in a mishap near Harlansburg.

ST. VITUS WINS

The St. Vitus softball team won a forfeit from the Second U. P. team which failed to appear for a scheduled church league fray. Tonight at Lockley field the St. Vitus team battles the Croton M. E. aggregation in a league tussle. To date, the St. Vitus team is undefeated in the loop.

Rambling Around World Of Sports

Baseball shorts—In the hope of bolstering their pitching staff for a flock of double-bills, the Chicago White Sox have recalled Harry Boyles and Jess Dobernic from the St. Paul club. The Pale Hose sent down Vic Frasier, a pitcher, and Ken Silvester, a back stop. Boyles and Dobernic found the road bumpy in the A. A. loop. Their presence on the knoll will be welcomed by the Foxxes, Greenbergs, DiMaggios and company . . . . The New York Yankees were due to break out. For the past week or so, the champs were hammering out less than 10 hits per game. Then, along came Pippen and set them back. The Yanks took a little ribbing for dropping their initial night fray. The box scores of Wednesday's twin bill explain the rest . . . Cincinnati has been goose-egged but five times this season . . . . The White Sox club is the latest major league outfit to adopt night baseball. Four games will be played this season.

Odds and ends — Wednesday's fight proved that Louis, in his prime, is far from a superman. Once he is hurt, the champ gets confused. When he was dropped, he arose immediately. A smart mittman would have taken advantage of the recess and figured things out. There seems to be but one hope—Lou Nova, in about a year. Nova has everything it takes, youth, stamina, a fighting heart and a cool head. Right now, he is a bit too inexperienced . . . Mrs. Lillie Brooks, Louis' mother, wants her boy to hang up the mitts . . . Floyd Nimerfro, the mayor of Dundee, Minn., who is also the town's mayor, has forsaken all activities for the summer—to take up a job as an umpire in the Northern League! . . . The sports world gets funnier and funnier. Maxie Rosenbloom, who was washed up years ago, hit the sport pages by kayoing Al Ettore, of Philly. Can it be that the coast is attempting to build up another foe for Joe Louis? . . . .

Local sport nuggets—The local fight industry did quite well in Farrell, a few nights ago. Mike Kraynak, of Ellwood City, also a Geneva College student, returned to the ring wars by scoring a knockout . . . Bennie Bartle and Elmer Cortez, also of Ellwood City, came through with decisions over rugged opponents . . . Norm Johnson, star pitcher for the Princeton All Stars aggregation, saw his dream become a reality, Wednesday night. The cool headed Johnson turned in a no-hit no-run game against the fast Union A. A. aggregation, at the Princeton ball field. The gallery was on pins and needles as the end of the tussle approached . . .

"FASHIONS FOR MEN"

Bass Season Opens Saturday

Bass season opens Saturday and no doubt hundreds of fishermen will go still fishing and casting for both large and small mouth bass, which according to Clinton White, fish warden, should be plentiful this season. The limit for any one day is six and the size in Lawrence county is nine inches. According to White, all fish now are in season.

He also said that while the regular season for frogs usually opens July 2, the law prohibits the taking of frogs on Sunday and because of this, it will not be legal to take frogs until Monday.

Relative to fish bait, one may possess 50, but not more than 35 of one kind. For instance, a fisherman may possess 35 minnies and 15 crabs or 15 crabs and 35 minnies.

Recently the legislature passed a law permitting the taking of fish bait on Sunday. However, it is not known if the governor has yet signed the bill. Pending further information, White said fish wardens here would not bring prosecution for the catching of fish bait on Sunday.

It is all right to use a four foot square seine to take bait he stated. White says that both Neshannock river and Slippery Rock have been stocked and there should be good catches.

We are happy to announce that the Girl Scout Day Camp will close a very successful camp season today. The entire day will be turned over to "Open House" the day when the parents are permitted to inspect the workings of the camp. One hundred and thirty-five girls enjoyed the experience. The weather was none too good the first few days but the girls have been making up for that these good days the first part of this week. Special attention must be given the directors of the camp and especially to Miss Regina Pupp and Miss Helen MacLean for their splendid work. Some day there no doubt will be a genuine camp for Girls in New Castle.

Quite a bit of painting has been done this year and every effort has been made and will be made to make the camp a better place in which to camp. Although we have one of the leading Y. M. C. A. camps in the state, the camp directors are not satisfied to stop . . . they are continuously making improvements. So if you have a chance . . . visit the Y. M. C. A. camp on visitors' day this season.

Quite a few people have informed us that they have been eating home grown beans this past week. The first to call our bluff was your friend and mine . . . Judge W. W. Braham. And believe it or not one young fellow informed us that his family will have corn on the cob before long . . . in fact within one week . . . we won't believe that until we sink our teeth in an ear.

After attending the testimonial dinner for the Pennsylvania Power Company last evening we are convinced beyond any doubt that we have a great town and in this great town we have some mighty fine men. Men who are always thinking about the betterment of the community. Men who have started from the b

Action Regarding Refreshment Stand Deferred By Council

Petition Asking Discontinuance Of Stand Presented At Special Session

ELLWOOD CITY, June 30.—Following an hour's discussion, in which suggestions both pro and con were given, concerning what action should be taken in regard to the protested refreshment stand at Ewing Park grove, members of the Ellwood City boro council in special session last night voted to defer action until the stated July meeting on Thursday, the sixth.

Charging that the refreshment stand is forcing a confectionery store in the park residential section to go out of business and asking for the discontinuance of the stand, Mrs. Harry Huffman, on behalf of the proprietor, presented a petition signed by 255 residents of the park, representing 172 homes. The stand was erected by the boro several weeks ago with the understanding that the profit should go to make up a deficit in the playgrounds fund. Having caused so much controversy, Burgess McGlincy said he believed the matter should be settled at once, inasmuch as the receipts from the stand averaged only ten dollars a day. Members of the playgrounds commission will be asked to attend the next meeting to give an expression of their opinion in regard to what action should be taken. The stand will be closed the three days of the community festival.

Bids for supplying the plumbing fixtures for the camp site to be used for the firemen's convention in August were opened and upon recommendation of the fire and water committee were awarded to F. J. Gardner at the bid of $486.76 and the low bidder for the carpenter work was E. O. Blose at $243.75.

Because Robert Curry, health chairman, and Boro Manager Lowell W. Monroe had just returned on Wednesday from attending a state health convention held at State College, a report on the sewage disposal plant was postponed until the regular meeting.

President A. J. Howell explained the organization of the zoning commission and said that body desired to have council arrange a survey that their work might be expedited.

Preliminary work about completed, C. M. Parshall reported that Center avenue, which is to be hard surfacesd, is ready for grading. Bids for a truck were opened and referred to the street committee for a recommenadtion. There were four bidders.

Conner of the Chamber of Commerce Roads and Bridges committee, reported active progress on the Brush Creek Valley highway and the improvement of the river road which is a short cut between Ellwood City and Beaver Falls via Belton, at the quarterly board of directors meeting held at the Chamber of Commerce rooms last night.

The board after considerable discussion on the parking meter project for this city unanimously agreed it was not a question for the chamber board to decide but the taxpayers and merchants of the community to decide upon.

Last April the chamber inquired of the comptroller of the currency in Washington relative to the insolvent First National Bank issuing a 10 per cent dividend to the creditors of the receivership who had proved claims. In a letter to the chamber yesterday, the supervising receiver of the division of insolvent national banks stated that a 10 per cent dividend would be forthcoming in the very near future.

Report Pastor Abducted And Given Whipping

(International News Service)

ATLANTA, Ga., May 24—A band of about a dozen men last night kidnapped the Rev. Grady R. Kent, pastor of the Church of God in suburban Egan Park, and took him to a lonely road where they administered 30 lashes with a whip, Fulton county police were told today.

The minister, who returned to the city by street car after the whipping was reported to be in a painful condition today at the home of one of the church members.

County police launched an investigation of the affair after a delegation from the church called at police headquarters to report it. The members said they believed the whipping was caused by trouble the church had recently with other residents of the city, who have claimed services were being held too late at night and that members were disturbing the peace.

The abductors, police were told, warned the minister that they would give him "until Sunday to get away from that church."

The fact is that if the New Deal should lose the solidity of its labor support there would be little left of it politically. That being the case, it is surprising that the A. HARDLY KNOW I HAVE A BACK SINCE VENDOL EASED MISERY

New Castle resident says he was seldom without dull, aching pains, and so stiff could barely stoop over. Feels just grand now.

MR. JOSEPH FRACUL

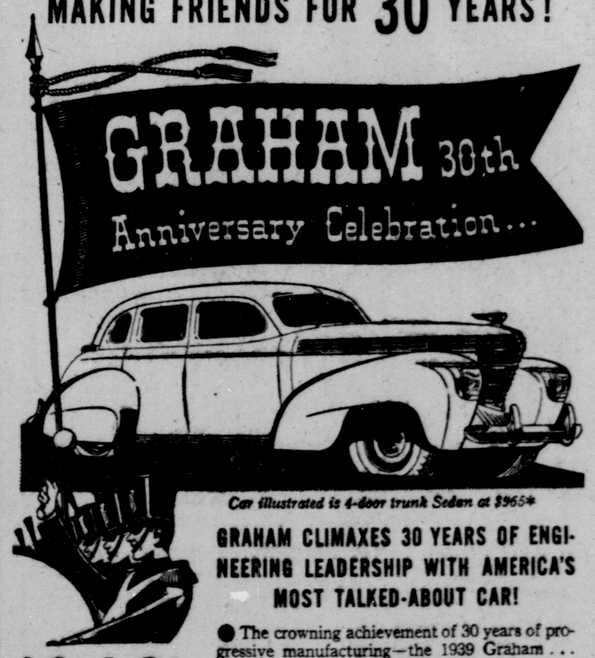

No matter where you go here in New Castle and nearby towns, you are almost sure to find someone who has taken Vendol and will testify to the wonderful relief it has given, in many instances after years of suffering. This was the case of Mr. Joseph Fracul of 1702 Hamilton St., New Castle, a Stone Dresser by trade, who gave a statement for publication to the Vendol Man in Eckerd's Cut Rate Drug as follows:

"I had suffered from many outward symptoms, but now I know they all came from being constipated and needing a good diuretic medicine for my kidneys. For the past few years I didn't enjoy a single meal, because more than likely I'd suffer soon afterwards with sourness, indigestion, gas and heart fluttering. I was highly nervous, too, and it seemed that I had to put up with spells of dizziness most every day. But worst of all was my back which sometimes ached almost unbearably, feeling as though it were about to break in two. I often felt so stiff in my muscles that I could barely stoop over.

"I had tried various remedies recommended for these troubles, but it wasn't until I took Vendol that I found the relief I sought. I was really amazed when, after I'd taken only a few doses, my bowels began to move unusually thoroughly, pleasantly and actively. Soon I was again eating anything that struck my fancy without suffering in any way afterwards; my nerves were just as quiet and calm as they could be; the spells of dizziness simply seemed to leave me; and most wonderful of all, I don't know that I have a back now; that's how nicely those old aches have been relieved. Yes, it's a real pleasure to recommend a medicine like Vendol to my friends and the public."

Learn how Vendol can help you as it has so many people all around here. Come to Eckerd's Cut Rate Drug; meet the Vendol Man and let him tell you all about this medicine. Most all leading druggists now sell and recommend it.

Birds Destroy Tent Caterpillars

In answer to a number of requests from Owen Fox, as to what good is being done by our birds, he desires to say, that this would be partly explained by an incident witnessed by Mr. Fox a few days ago.

A tree contained a couple of large webs of tent caterpillers in Gaston Park, which contained thousands of the pests. He saw two king birds fly to the tree, when they immediate attacked the webs, and during the time he had eaten his dinner, the birds devoured and eliminated every vestige of these gnawing worms. By this act of service, these two birds had saved a number of trees from having their leaves devoured by these crawlers.

MEHARD WILL SEEK NEW TRIAL

Former City Solicitor In Pittsburgh Is Found Guilty After Court Trial

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, May 24—A new trial move was planned today in answer to the swift conviction of former city solicitor Churchill B. Mehard on charges of bribery and misdemeanor in office growing out of the $375,000 "contest verdict" scandal.

After one hour and 10 minutes' deliberation, the jury found the former world war artillery commander guilty on all counts. Mehard had been accused specifically of accepting $11,000 in bribes to settle personal injury cases against the city.

Shaken by the verdict, Mehard and his wife, who was present with him in the courtroom, quickly regained composure but would only say:

"I have nothing to say for publication."

Defense attorney Oliver K. Eaton announced immediately following the verdict he would move for a new trial.

Queen Mother's Eye Injured

"Restless Night" Is Spent By Former English Queen After Accident

(International News Service)

LONDON, May 24.—Queen Mother Mary suffered an injured eye in the automobile accident in which she was "considerably bruised" and shaken up yesterday, it was revealed officially today.

An official bulletin on the 72-year-old queen's condition added that she had spent a "restless night."

"Her majesty," said the bulletin, "passed a restless night, partly due to an injury to one eye which, though painful, is not a source of anxiety. Her general condition is satisfactory."

The queen, who is at Marlborough House, her London residence, is under the care of Sir Richard Cruise, her surgeon oculist, who formerly served the late King George V in the same capacity.

Physicians were expected to make a more complete examination today to determine whether the 72-year-old queen suffered possible internal injuries when the automobile in which she was riding struck a truck and overturned.

It was learned that the Duke of Windsor, eldest son of Queen Mary, talked lengthily with his mother last night by telephone from Paris.

According to court circles, the Duke was informed that the queen's condition at present is not serious. But should she suffer a set-back, it was said, the Duke, who has remained away from England since he abandoned his throne to marry the former Wallis Warfield, will be asked to come to London immediately.

Physicians attending her majesty believed it would take another 12 hours to determine whether her heart might react seriously to the shock of the accident, owing to her advanced age.

Old Pump Station Is Now Enlarged

Quite a change has happened to the old pumping station building at the corner of Oak and Spruce streets. The building, which is of brick, has had an addition built to it, of buff brick, toward Oak street, making it a substantial building of about twice the original size.

The old building was erected over thirty-five years ago, by the New Castle Water company, and used as a "booster" station. It contained a gasoline engine, that pumped water from the main pipe to a ground reservoir at the head of Chestnut street.

In 1911, the city having grown in population and size considerably, it was decided by the company to build a standpipe on the Chestnut street elevation, and the old pump station was abandoned by them, and later sold. The tank is sixty feet high, and has a capacity of 200,000 gallons.

STAMP CLUB TO ELECT TONIGHT

Members of the Lawrence County Philatelic society will have a meeting tonight at 8 o'clock, in the club rooms, in the Guerard building, corner of Falls and Mill streets.

According to Arthur O. Dunn, president, an election of new officers will be held at this time.

Senate Democrats Tell Colleagues Nation Not Favoring Third Term

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 24 — Senate Democrats today pondered reports from their own ranks that the country is opposed to a third term for President Roosevelt and is getting tired of some phases of the New Deal.

The reports came from Senator M. M. Logan, of Kentucky, and Senator Pat McCaran, of Nevada, just back from inspecting the federal judicial systems in the midwest and far west. Both senators declared they discovered prevailing sentiment against a third term.

Logan, who visited the midwest, said:

"The people are talking Hull and Garner. They don't want President Roosevelt to run again and I think it would be a big mistake for him to seek a third term.

"The people are also talking economy but it is economy for others, not for themselves.

Gloomy New Deal Picture

McCarran drew even gloomier New Deal picture in the far west. He said:

"The far west, particularly the intermountain states, will be for Garner. The vice president has always been the favorite of the west and he is now. I found sentiment there opposed to a third term."

McCarran said the west was speculating over the purpose of Postmaster General James A. Farley in touring the nation. He reported speculation was divided as to whether Farley was seeking delegates for his own nomination in 1940 or for the president for a third term.

McCarran was particularly gloomy about economic conditions in the west. He said:

"Agriculture is in a bad way and mining is almost worse. The silver producing states want legislation that will stabilize the price of silver. The mining states, that produced copper, zinc and lead, want silver stabilized because silver is a by-product of those metals.

Fear Trade Agreements

"Livestock producers are fearful of the reciprocal trade agreements. They are discouraged over the Canadian agreement. There is pessimism in the grazing states, the industry today is producing cattle at less than the cost of production, by reason of new and unusual burdents, such as taxes and charging for the use of the public domain for grazing purposes.

"The wool producers are fearful of an agreement that might bring in Australia. The British treaty has driven the wool market downward."

McCarran said the people of the west were urging a reduction in relief appropriations to keep relief "down to actual necessities while reducing the overhead." He added there was general sentiment for local administration of relief.

And finally, he reported:

"People everywhere expressed themselves to me with demands for measures that will prevent this country going to war. The people want to keep so far away from war they don't even want to approach the verge of it, where they may be pushed over into hostilities."

Report Bergdoll On Liner Bremen, To Dock Thursday

Bergdoll's Attorney Says Famous Draft-Dodger Will Be Surrendered To U. S. Officials

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, May 24—Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, the World War draft dodger whose exploits electrified the nation in 1917, is aboard the German liner Bremen which is due in New York tomorrow, the Senate Military Affairs committee was told today.

Harry Weinberger, Bedgdoll's attorney, said he would surrender Bergdoll to the commanding general of the U. S. Army Second Corps Area at Governors Island, New York, to begin serving the five-year sentence imposed on him before he fled to Germany. He showed the committee a letter of instruction from the war department adjutant general's office directing this procedure.

Weinberger made his announcement as he pleaded for rejection of the bill passed by the house May 15 which would deport the draft dodger immediately upon his arrival. He pleaded that Bergdoll was one of half a million draft dodgers, and argued that his punishment should not be more severe than that of others.

SCRANTON, Pa., May 24.—Three hundred directors of the Pennsylvania Motor Federation, assembled in Scranton for the organization's 33rd annual meeting, pushed ahead today with their campaign for elimination of unfair tax burdens on motor vehicle owners and operators.

Advancement of highway safety and the promotion of long-range highway construction programs were considered, in addition to legislative and other problems affecting motorists.

John A. Rupp, president of the federation, planned to address the executive meeting tonight. The initial business session was scheduled for tomorrow, to be followed by the annual dinner. The convention will close Friday when officers are elected.

Mayor Charles E. McGrath

Mayor Charles E. McGrath was introduced and welcomed the guests. He congratulated the officers of the Baltimore & Ohio for the fine group of men and women employed here, expressed the appreciation of the city for payroll of the railroad and predicted that the future would see even closer relations between the city and the railroad.

The Shenandoah quartet, composed of G. W. Short, A. J. Thomas, S. N. Griffith and J. T. Griffith, then sang several numbers, with J. V. Sypher at the piano. Mr. Thomas and Mr. Short followed with solos.

Donald F. Stevens, former superintendent of the B. & O. at New Castle, now general superintendent of transportation in Baltimore, Md., was introduced. Mr. Stevens likened the trip to New Castle as a "trip back home". He spoke feelingly of the years he spent here and said that some of the richest experiences of his railroad career were had here in New Castle.

Congratulations Given

O. S. Lewis, general freight traffic manager, was the next speaker. He was introduced as a man who had started with the B. & O. at the age of 11, came up through the ranks, had been admitted to practice law, was an expert in conchology and bee culture and an authority on matters concerning freight traffic. His address was brief, being confined for the most part to a note of congratulation for the splendid turnout and for the work of the CTP.

Helen Forman, organizer of the women's division of the CTP spoke briefly and lauded the women for their part in the work of this co-operative group. At this point two young dancers, Norma June Fishburn and Earl Hammond presented several groups of dance numbers. Harry Ross and Ernie Palus presented a vaudeville sketch. "The Piano Movers" and Norman E. Clarke, president of the Greater New Castle Association introduced the city and county officials, heads of the civic, fraternal and labor groups present, and then presented Fred L. Rentz, president of The News.

C. W. Galloway

C. W. Galloway, vice president of the Baltimore and Ohio and a veteran of 56 years experience in service was the principal speaker of the evening. In his address he devoted considerable time to the problems of the railroads today.

"We seem to hear nothing these days except what is generally termed the railroad problems" said Mr. Galloway. "This situation has been made a problem by the way the roads have been treated by those to whom we have a right to look for protection and what has therefore been created is not a problem of the public but of the management to whom the public looks for satisfactory service." He then told of the recent plan of the B. and O. with its security holders which calls for a temporary modification of interest charges and deferment of certain maturities.

Mr. Galloway pointed out that the railroads in the United States get an average of 94 cents per ton per mile for freight hauled, the lowest rate in the world for comparable service. He said that railroad difficulties have not been caused by over capitalization, to over expansion of plant, nor to failure to co-ordinate operations.

Raps Canals

"Perhaps the most important reason for the loss of traffic is the Inland waterways, more particularly the canalization of the Ohio and Mississippi rivers. It isn't fair. It is drying up our inland towns. New Castle and Youngstown recognize the fact and are moving Heaven and Earth to get a canal from the Ohio river to Lake Erie. We don't blame them for trying, so long as towns with whom them compete have free waterways but at the risk of becoming unpopular in the Mahoning and Shenango Valleys I will say we are opposed to it and in cooperation with other railroads will continue to oppose it to the limit. If the canal is ever built it will reduce railroad payrolls in this district by more than $15,000,000 per year. Canals are built by the taxpayers but are used without cost to those using them."

The railroad cannot solve their problems alone and it ought to be solved by putting into effect a sound public policy applying to all forms of transportation alike and giving each and every sort equal treatment and a chance to meet business on equal terms.

"He mentioned the loss of business by railroads to trucks, and criticised the fact that trucks pay low taxes while the railroads have to maintain their own rights of way and pay high taxes.

In closing, Mr. Galloway congratulated the C. T. P. group for the fine work done in promoting better feeling for the railroads and attracting business to the B. and O. rails. He suggested that if every employe would exert himself to the same interest as has the C. T. P. the road would be well back on its way to solving its business problems.

Concluding the program, the "Flying Irwins" father and son, presented a roller skating act that was well received. Mr. Roessell turned the meeting back to Chairman I. L. Harper and the group adjourned to the ball room where for the next two hours dancing was enjoyed.

The dinner dance was a fitting finish to a successful day. Baltimore and Ohio day was the success it should have been and pointed the way to future co-operative meetings such as it was, in this city.

Game Commission Condemns Measure Now Before Senate

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, May 24—A measure, sharply condemned by the Pennsylvania Game Commission and the Pennsylvania Federation of sportsmen to drastically revise existing game laws and the make-up of the game commission was up for final passage in the Senate today.

Criticized by the commission and federation as threatening destruction of existing game regulations the bill would set up an independent commission comprised of eight citizens appointed geographically by the governor.

The commission's power to establish an open season on antlerless deer would be restricted by the measure. In addition, the commission's power to declare and establish regulations relating to the use of traps and other methods of taking wild-game would also be restricted.

The bill would also revise hunting privileges for minors. It was sponsored by Sen. Montgomery F. Crowe, R., Monroe.
